DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 1 – 2 and 20 – 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Ohsawa (US 2001/0014491 A1).

Ohsawa discloses in figure 3j a method of laying out traces for connection of bond pads of a semiconductor chip to a ball grid array disposed on a substrate.

With regard to claim 1, Ohsawa discloses in figure 3j providing a substrate having a surface with a plurality of rows and columns of ball pads and having a solder ball secured to each of the ball pads. Ohsawa discloses in figure 3j providing a plurality of pairs of traces on the surface, each trace of each of the pairs of traces extending to a different one of the ball pads and extending to ball pads on a plurality of the rows and columns, each trace of each of the pair of traces being spaced from the other trace of the pair by up to a ball pitch, being maximized for identity in length and having up to one ball pitch difference in length and being maximized for parallelism and spacing.

With regard to claim 2, it is inherent in the method of Ohsawa that each of the traces of the pair is further maximized for identity in cross-sectional geometry.

With regards to claims 20 and 21, Ohsawa inherently discloses that the substrate is a printed wiring board substrate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3 – 4 and 22 – 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ohsawa.

With regard to claims 3 – 4, Ohsawa does not disclose applying a differential signal pair to at least one of the pair of traces. Applying differential signal pairs is well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to apply a differential signal pair to at least one of the pair of traces in order to have a lower output voltage from the pair as is well known in the art.

With regards to claims 22 – 23, Ohsawa inherently discloses that the substrate is a printed wiring board substrate.

5. Claims 5 – 8 and 24 – 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ohsawa as applied to claims 1 – 4, respectively, above, and further in view of Karnezos (USPAT 5409865, Karnezos).

With regard to claims 5 – 8, Ohsawa does not disclose including a step of providing a further surface insulated from the surface with some of the traces being on the further surface.

Art Unit: 2815

Karnezos teaches in the abstract section a step of providing a further surface insulated from a surface of a substrate, a plurality of traces are disposed on the further surface. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention to use the insulated further surface of Karnezos in the method of Ohsawa in order to provide a generally flexible dielectric film bearing a pattern of conductive traces as stated by Karnezos in the abstract.

With regards to claims 24 – 27, Ohsawa inherently discloses that the substrate is a printed wiring board substrate.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 12-26-01 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

7. With regard to the Applicant's arguments that "However, a reading of the specification of Ohsawa nowhere teaches or even remotely suggests the claimed step." The Examiner would like to point out that the claimed step is disclosed in figure 3j of Ohsawa, as pointed out above and in the office action dated 10-04-2001.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 19 and 28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:
The prior art of record, either singularly or in combination, does not disclose or suggest at least the step of a third pair of traces extending to ball pads in a third row of a second and third columns and disposed in parallel between the second and third columns wherein there are no other leads disposed between the second and third columns.

Conclusion

1. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
